HERITAGE ANALYSIS

SITE & STRUCTURE DESCRIPTION:	Edwardian single storey building, facing the bend in the road, with likely Victorian core. Although single storey, the building is very tall, and appears to almost be institutional in its proportioning. Tall, vertical windows and a central door (all appear to be original) as well as decorative eaves and plaster quoining add to the structure. A large, lawned forecourt to the structure, as well as mature oak trees, are important to the character of the site as a whole.
HISTORY:	The structure appears on the c1938 aerial photography for the area.
