HERITAGE ANALYSIS

SITE & STRUCTURE DESCRIPTION:	A cluster of four workers' houses on the edge of the Ida's Valley werf closest to the town, these cottages, with three vaulted modules, front stoeps and white walls, create a small werf of their own. The design intent was to create economical, robust and architecturally sympathetic houses on the edge of a historically significant farm werf, and this was ably achieved. Large oak trees and whitewashed boundary walls embed the houses further within their context.
HISTORY:	The houses were built in 1975, and commissioned by the owners of Ida's Valley farm, Major Philip Erskine and Mrs Fiona Erskine.
