"5-bay house with corrugated iron roof, central Victorianised gable with pilasters and pediment and a 6x6 sash, and pedimented holbol end gables. 3x3 door with fanlight and sidelights and 2x2 sashes with internal shutters, all with simple plaster surrounds and connected by a string course. Moulded cornice under eaves. The left bay has an arched carriage opening with timber double doors with a small 6x6 sash over, and an arched door. Raised stoep with projecting steps."

"This erf was part of the parsonage land purchased in 1753 by the Dutch Reformed Church. In 1799 Hermanus Metzelen bought this and the erf on which no 158 Dorp St stands, both erven stretching from Dorp to Church St. Pieter Malan bought this erf in 1807 and sold it to Elizabeth Albertyn two years later. She divided it in two and sold the Dorp St half to AS van Coller in 1818. He was probably responsible for building the house. In 1846 it was transferred to FP Hauptfleisch. (Oberholster)"
